Cognitive decline and increased prevalence of mild cognitive impairment in patients with hyperinsulinaemic type 2 diabetes mellitus. To examine the effect of hyperinsulinaemia on cognitive function in patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus (T2DM), all patients who participated in an intervention trial for T2DM were assessed using neuropsychological tests. Mild cognitive impairment (MCI) was defined as an impairment in any one of six cognitive domains. Prevalence of MCI was significantly higher in T2DM patients (19.8%) than in controls (6.3%) (p=0.012). A trend towards association was seen between T2DM duration and the prevalence of MCI, while age and diabetes-related parameters did not affect MCI prevalence. The prevalence of MCI in patients with HbA1c > or =10.0% (64 mmol/mol) and/or receiving insulin therapy was significantly higher than in 82157476af
